LOCAL ITEMS.

Rain, rain, plenty of rain. Everybody had a delightful time at the Santa Cruz Club last night.

Omstead, the architect, has moved into his newly acquired property on Grand avenue.

Last evening Mr. William Parker of Canille, returned from Sonora with a big bunch of cattle.

Last evening President Bracey Curtis of the First National Bank of Nogales, returned from a business visit to Hermosillo.

Patagonia continues to boom. Three cheers and a tiger. No gales is proud of her little sister, and wishes her the best ever.

Mrs. L. M. Raines has been quite ill during the present week, but at this writing is greatly improved to the delight of her numerous friends.

George Januel, the expert German barber, on Morley Ave., in Brickwood building, guarantees his work, and respectfully invites you to give him a trial. Everything neat and clean. Hair Cutting a specialty.

Mr. Alberto Mascarenas, with his interesting family, has returned from Hermosillo, and will again make Nogales his home. "The Prince" has a host of old friends and acquaintances here who will be pleased to learn of his return to Nogales.

W. J. Colburn, after ten days absence from the city, is back and may again engage in business here. Billy has a fondness for the Line City; he has money to invest, and believes here is the best place to invest it. His friends will be glad to welcome him home.

A heavy rain storm visited Santa Cruz county Wednesday, doing a vast amount of good to our farming and stock interests. The storm was the heaviest in the Elgin and Patagonia sections according to Harry Karns of this city, who motored out there Wednesday in his big Glide.

Thursday Judge M. Marsteller returned from a visit to the Patagonia mining district, where he has mining property, which like a hundred other properties in that district, looks good. The judge was caught in the great rain storm that visited that section Wednesday and got "wet to the skin."

William Stoerck, "The Little Dutchman," who several years ago resided here with his family, has returned to Nogales to make his home. For several years past Mr. and Mrs. Stoerck have resided at Hermosillo. Their many friends here and throughout Santa Cruz county, will be glad to hear that they have returned.

Just the same, two Nogales boys have secured good jobs in the special session of the state legislature, C. P. Cronin being appointed chief clerk in the Senate, and P. J. Munch, assistant chief clerk in the House. A man by the name of Gamble, not our Jim Gamble, also got a clerkship in the House. All of which is going some for little Santa Cruz county.

Charley Buffett, the civil and mining engineer, formerly a resident of Nogales, when he was engineer for Captain L. W. Mix, now of Hermosillo, was here Thursday night, being a stopover visitor from Hermosillo to Cananea, on professional business. While here he met a number of old-time friends and acquaintances, all of whom were pleased to know he is prospering.

Last Wednesday at the Arizona's Pioneer Home, at Prescott Norman McKinzie, forty-five years a resident of Arizona, passed away after a short illness, of paralysis. Deceased was 72 years of age at the time of his death. He was well known in Santa Cruz and other southern Arizona counties. He made Nogales his home for several years. He was admitted to the pioneers home from Pima county.

The grand ball Tuesday evening at the Ramirez theatre, and the big military parade on Wednesday, in Nogales, Sonora, in honor of the approval of the Mexican constitution, February 5th, 1857, were enjoyed by many residents and visitors in our little sister town just across the international border. The Mexican soldiers as they marched and counter-marched, presented a pleasing sight and officers and men were complimented all along the line of march. Colonel Emilio Kosterlitzky, who is universally liked by both Mexicans and foreigners, was as usual given a warm reception by friends and admirers.

To the Tucson Star of yesterday, L. H. Long, assistant general manager of the Southern Pacific of Mexico, said: "Business is constantly increased on the S. P. lines in Mexico and the Yaquis and insurrectos are uncommonly quiet. The train service is running on schedule time as far south as Tepic, about 1000 miles south of Tucson, and the freight and passenger service is becoming heavier at all points on the line."

R. W. Balch, bookkeeper at Cerro de Plata silver mines in the Magdalena district, Sonora, a short distance south of Nogales, is a guest at the Montezuma hotel, having come up to the Line City to meet his brother, W. E., who is here from Los Angeles, where he makes his headquarters. W. E. has for a number of years been interested in Mexican land and mines. Both he and R. W. are well and favorably known here.

This week Escalada Brothers' handsome big Morley avenue business house was greatly improved in appearance, by putting in large new plate glasses, etc., the work having been done under the personal supervision of Manager Manuel Escalada. The big mercantile plant would be a credit to a city many times the size of Nogales, and is well stocked with goods to supply ranches and mining camps, at right prices—wholesale or retail.

How women have advanced from the educational ranks to the highest administrative positions in the public schools is interestingly revealed in figures just compiled by the United States Bureau of Education. Four States—Colorado, Idaho, Washington, and Wyoming have women at the head of their State school systems, and there are now 495 women county superintendents in the United States, nearly double the number of ten years ago.

Yesterday was Arbor Day in the counties of Cochise, Gila, Graham, Greenlee, Maricopa, Pinal, Yuma and Santa Cruz. April 4th, has been named by Governor Hunt as Arbor Day in the counties of Apache, Navajo, Coconino, Mohave and Yavapai. The splendid rains all over the southern counties, during the past week, made planting of trees, shrubs, vines and flowers, an easy job. The rain came at a timely season, and as a result southern Arizona is a million or two richer.

The entire Fifth Cavalry is now stationed at Fort Huachuca, and three troops from the Fifth will soon relieve the Ninth Cavalry troops stationed here, under command of Captain Walker, one of the whitest men in the United States army. All the officers of the colored troops stationed here, are gentlemen from the south. Since their arrival here there has been little if any trouble among the soldiers, who are a well-behaved bunch, proud of the uniform they wear, and at all times respectful to civilians. The fears that the colored troops would cause trouble, were unfounded.

The work of the soldiers of the Ninth cavalry who the other day rounded up and capturing nine Yaqui Indians who had in their possession a big lot of rifles and ammunition which they were smuggling into Sonora, is most commendable. The Yaquis were chased from across the Mexican line by customs guards but were unable to escape our Uncle Sam's boys, some of whom are always out on the line looking for those attempting to violate the neutrality law. On Thursday two prisoners charged with attempting to smuggle munitions of war, were brought in by U. S. soldiers, and it is said that the patrol of the border will be greatly strengthened by soldiers of the Ninth and Fifth U. S. Cavalry.

Elgin B. and Walter Holt, the principal owners of the great Cerro de Plata silver bonanza mines down near Cumeral, Sonora, Mexico, are guests at the Montezuma hotel, and today will reorganize the Cerro de Plata Mining Company, the American corporation, and the Cerro de Plata Mining Company S. A., the Mexican corporation. Captain J. C. Besley of Los Angeles from whom the Holt Bros. purchased their wonderful bonanza, will arrive today from the coast to attend the meeting of the company, in which he still retains an interest as a big stockholder. Other stockholders here are Roy & Titcomb Inc., and Francis J. Hobson. Every man owning stock in the company, will make big money.

Geo. G. Geist (that's the way he signed it) is an inmate of Sheriff McKnight's hotel with a badly cut head, and a charge of forging checks and attempting to steal a horse from Immigration John Brickwood. After working eleven days for O. F. Ashburn, as a teamster, he stole a book of blank checks and with the aid of a Crittenden Cattle Co. rubber stamp, proceeded to separate Patagonia business men from ready cash—something over one hundred dollars—and Wednesday evening came to Nogales. Early Thursday morning George saw and liked Mr. Brickwood's fine sorrel saddle horse, and offered to buy him, stating he was working for Frank Moson, the cowman, and could use such an animal. Mr. Brickwood, who was still in bed, told George he would see him later. George did not wait for a second meeting, but hastened to Peck's livery stable with an order to which he signed the owner of the horse's name, stating that he was to be given the horse and a fine saddle. He got the outfit and was riding towards the sunny south, when Brickwood saw him. He hurried to the stable and mounting his great white racer, hit George's trail. In a little while he rode the fleeing horse thief to earth, and after hitting him over the head with his six pistol, landed him in the country jail, where he'll remain until the swallows nest again. George is sure a bad egg.

GOOD NEWS.

L. B. Johnson Knows the Crude Stuff
When He Sees It.

L. B. Johnson, of Mesa, Arizona, and Thos. A. Wetzel, of Los Angeles, California, arrived in the city Thursday evening from Phoenix, making the cross-country trip in Mr. Johnson's Buick, and are guests at the Montezuma hotel.

Mr. Johnson is a prominent, wealthy citizen of the Salt River valley, where he has resided more than thirty years, with his family. He is also largely interested in the Seven Lakes oil fields of McKinley county, New Mexico, and is financially interested in the Inter-State Oil Co. of Nogales, which owns a big tract of oil land on which two wells have already been sunk, in both of which high-grade oil of a paraffine base, similar to the Pennsylvania product, has been struck, at a depth of between three and four hundred feet.

Mr. Johnson says that he is not an oil expert, but he knows oil when he sees it; that he personally visited the Seven Lakes fields a number of times, also that he personally helped bale five barrels of oil from one of the Inter-State Oil Company's wells. He also knows that one of the company's stockholders, who a short time ago moved from Phoenix to the field, is using gas from the Company's well No. 2 for fuel and lighting purposes in his store and home.

He believes that the new oil fields will prove to be the best oil producers in America, and that the property of the Inter-State Oil Company, is the best in the field.

The company owns the best up-to-date machinery in the field and arrangements are being made to put down a deep hole, with chances good for striking a world-beater oil producer, when John D. and his crowd will realize that there are "others".

Messrs. Johnson and Wetzel are here to look at mining property, but the former gentleman is more enthusiastic over oil than he is about mines, and has promised to have a barrel of the Inter-State oil shipped to Nogales, upon his return to Mesa, the home of K. Pomeroy, president of the local company.
